

Poems Of Eli Whipple

Eli Whipple seems to have been born with the instincts of a poet, he loved to express himself in rhyme, much of which has been preserved by his descendants. Included here are a number of examples. Since his progeny now is, as was Abraham's like the stars in the heavens and the sands of the sea, many of whom will likely come in contact with this book, we have included a number of samples for their sake.

I often write of things that's past
Sometimes, of things to come.
Now, I'll write of things at last
That happened here at home.

You know they had a little store,
The people called Co-op.
The like was never known before
'Twas such a shaving shop.

To see them shave the honest poor
To me it was distressing
But thank the Lord it is no more
It's changed to be a blessing.

They used to sell for forty cents
The poorest kind of sugar,
But now they sell for twenty cents
A quality much gooder.

Now iron sells for twenty five
'Twas thirty-five before
You see they've dropped a quarter off
And quite a little more.

From Satin, down to laces
You'd laugh to see our women trade
They have such smiling faces
At the bargains they have made.

Now Booker says he'll run them out
By dropping prices lower
But, oh, a business man like him
Should have thought of that before.

8

I'll prophesy that all the stores
From Booker down to Pane
If the Co-op was out of the way
Would raise the price again.

Now, let them all bring on their goods
No, odds, how low they drop
As long as Bowman does the right
We'll trade at the Co-op.

We can read all ancient history
From the days of Adam down
And read of noble works performed
By men of great renown.
But there's nothing yet recorded
That will show in future years
Like the work that's being accomplished
By the Mormon Pioneers.

They were honest hearted people
And joined a little band
And formed a resolution
That they'd keep God's command
And they were taught by angels
How and where to raise
A standard to all nations
In these, the latter days.

And if they would be diligent
And send their elders forth
And gather all the honest up
They'd soon control the earth.
At this the wicked took offense
And would not hear to reason
They said the saints should all be took
And tried and hung for treason.

And then a wicked war commenced
By all denominations
Against this little band of Saints
Who're led by inspiration.
They put their men in prison
And drove their folks from home
In this free country of ours.

And soon they killed their leaders
Then would not let them be
The rest must all denounce their faith
Or leave the country.
They started for the mountains
Where men had never trod
Rejected by our government
Because they worshipped God.

ALONE

The moments, the seconds, the days and the hours
How swiftly they all glide away.
The lillies, the roses, and all kinds of flowers
Seem all to bloom, and all blight in a day
But, oh, how the time seems to linger
While my mind just wanders and roams.
A looking for prospects, but none do I see
But to finish my journey alone.

We read in old times, lived a notable sage
Who in solitude found many charms,
But I like the notable men of this age
Rather live in a midst of alarms.
I lay and I think of the chances in life.
And dream of a once happy home
Where I was caressed by my children and wife
And was never left alone.

But, now I am old and my hearing is bad
And I am lame, and can hardly walk.
When sitting around, I feel so lonely and sad,
I can't hear what folks say when they talk.
And I hear no kind words from my children
and wife
Unnoticed in silence I moon
In the midst of family strife
I live just the same as if I was alone.

But, in the next world I can hear and can walk
And be where my first wife has gone,
And with her and my children can talk
And there have a happy home
The time I know is not far away
When I will be laid in the tomb
And leave this body of clay
Until the day of redemption doth come.

A DREAM

I dreamed I saw a young girl and her mother
floating on some logs down a river and she was singing this song:

More good can be done
By the Father and Son
Than man can accomplish below
They cause it to rain
On the dry sandy plain
Where the huckle and blueberries grow.

They cause all the wheat
To grow that we eat
And the fishes that swim in the sea
The cow that we milk
And the fine flossy silk
And honey we get from the bee.

The horse that we ride
With his beauty and pride
And the deer that roam o're the hill
The old oak trees
That have weathered the breeze
And the pine that we saw in the mill.

The Elk and the Bear
The pine hen and hare
All for the good of mankind
They tell how to live
To get and to give
And yet to their goodness we are blind.

A PLEASANT HOME

How pleasant to live in a cottage
Where parents and children unite
And work to make each other happy
All striving their best to do right.

The father in words birm, but pleasant
Orders the work for the day
The family all listen with pleasure
And then they all strive to obey.

He keeps the garden, and arbor
And lawns all as nice as a pin
The woman is just as particular
To keep the house nice within.

She is always good natured and trying
To do all the good that she can,
She fixes things nice for the children
But her greatest desie for the man.

When she wants the children to help her
She tells one to do that, and one to do this
They always obey her with pleasure
She always rewards them with a kiss.

The children are always good natured,
They do not quarrel or fight
See them out in their playground
Oh, what a beautiful sight.

They are always so ready and willing
To obey every council that is given
So live in a family like this
You would think, for a moment, 'twas heaven

A VALENTINE

That Sacred day has come again
Your birthday too, is near.
I often wish but wish in vain
When wishing you were here.

But if your health is much improved
I then can stand the pain
That your absence causes, love
Till you return again.

If you were only with me, dear
I tell you what we'd do
Invite a few of our neighbors in
The day you're forty two.
But, dear, we'll have to let that stand
Because it can't be so
While you are in that far off land
And I'm in Mexico.

The hours fly, the moments pass
The days they come and go.
But, oh, it seems to me, alas
They're moving very slow
Your absence is the cause of this
It bears upon my mind.
There's nothing else that goes amiss
All seem so very kind.

I trust, ere long, the time will come
When you'll be on your way
To Mexico, our happy home.
I long to see the day.
And now these extra pains I take
To send this heart of mine
Accept it, darling, for my sake
Also, this Valentine.

Dublan Mexico February 14th

Oh, Father Dear how sweet the thought
To think that we shall meet again
In a far better world than this
Where freed from sorrows, toils and pain
My mind, it often wanders back
To thee, My sister and my brother
And think if I was a girl again
I'd always stay and live with Mother.

But cupid round me flung
His coils they soon ensnared my heart
And to him with all my might I clung,
And from my kindred, friends did part
And left them, O're this world to roam
With him I prized above all others
For years we had a happy home
Where I could often visit Mother.

But at length the gospel came
And caught my husband in it's net
Then, to me he seemed insane,
My feeling I shall ne're forget
And when my husband wished to go
And gather up, as did the others,
As for me, I told him no
I could not leave my Mother.

But soon the California Gold
Burst forth and, Oh, how it did glitter
Then, our happy home was sold
Thinking our temporal state to better,
My husband had an interest there
I knew, intrusted to his brother.
The thoughts of riches did ensnare
And take me from my Mother.

Gold, it was my idol then
That which I did love and cherish
But soon I found that saying true
The riches of the world doth perish
By fire, our riches mostly went
But some, by signing with another
Then I thought to be content
Since I had gone and left my Mother.

To move again, then was my doom
My husband could not be content
Since we had sold our happy home
For Utah he was fully bent.
But, oh, the feeling of my heart
Lest he might wish to get another
I often thought we'd better part
And I go home to Mother.

But my way I could not see
Until the spirit did tell me.
In a plain voice it said to me
"Go with him and all be well".
Now we live in Utah, where
Every man is a brother
And the women all as fair
And kind to me as my Mother.

8

Here, in happiness we live
We have a plenty, and to spare
To those that need we freely give
Those comforts we each other share.
Since heaven blessed our little store
With plenty for ourselves and others
I only wish we had more
To share the love I had for Mother.

Written for my first wife,
Patience Foster Whipple

Pine Valley, Utah . . 1863

My seventieth birthday is nigh
 What a wonderful change I have seen.
 I could not tell half if I'd try,
 Of all the improvements there's been.

But such things as comes to mind
 I will endeavor to mention
 And they will be of a kind
 That is of modern invention.

I remember when I was a lad
 We then had no horse, rake or mower
 No reapers or thrashers were made
 But now they are made by the score.

A syckle and scythe in their place
 We're used, but as slow as a snail
 We thought then it was no disgrace
 To thrash our grain with a flail.

One thing we surely can brag on
 To see what a load we can take
 How easy we handle a wagon
 By having the thimble and brake.

The sewing machine is a blessing
 With the stove too our women are pleased.
 The old style is awful oppressing
 But now they can live at their ease.

No such things as soda or matches
 We're used to make biscuit or bread.
 The people in those days used ashes,
 A flint and steel in their stead.

Electricity works with great splendor
 Coal oil and gas are all right
 How easy I can remember
 Before they were used for a light

Now, without fire, oil or gas
 They can light up the darkest abode
 With a substance that always will last
 Will never go out or explode.

10

The chick now can talk like a man
 Without receiving a shock
 And speak as plain as I can
 Saying, get up now it's six o'clock.

11

The Rail Road I surely must mention
 The telegraph too, has been made.
 What a wonderful change they are making
 In all of our travel and trade.

12

It's a mystery how such things are done
 With the telegraph wire at least
 For the news runs away from the sun
 When coming to us from the East.

13

The telephone too, is a wonder
 That has come forth in my day
 We talk with our friends way off yonder
 And hear in return what they say.

14

The Doctor has studied a plan
 By which the whole world is amazed
 To see the inside of a man
 By looking into X-Rays.

15

The breach loading bun is amusing
 And those that shoot rapid and fast
 Percussion they've all got to using,
 Old flint lock, a thing of the past.

16

The Torpedo is a wonder to me
 And dynamite too, by command,
 Will blow up their shipping at sea
 And blow down their building at Land

17

Of things that're revealed in my day,
 I've time now to mention by one,
 And then I've some few words to say
 Of judgements that quickly will come.

18

And that is the great gospel plan
 As revealed from the heavens above.
 With power conferred upon man,
 To preach forth repentance and love.

19

Apostles and Prophets are raised
 And thought by an angel from heaven
 To raise up a church in these days
 Where knowledge and power can be given

20

What a wonderful work they've performed
 By sending their elders from home

The nations are nearly all worked
That the hour of this judgement has come.

21

When the people are a fairly warned
In anger the wicked he'll purge
Pestilence, famine and war
And lightning he'll use as a scourge.

22

With cyclone, earthquakes and fire,
And other such plagues as he sends,
The wicked he'll purge and destroy
Till the blood of the saints be avenged.

23

His anger then will be cool
And order restored again
the Lord and the Saints then will rule
And commence the millennial reign.

Dublan, Mexico March 20th, 1898
Eli Whipple

In our snug little cottage
Where we used to dwell
With joy, peace and plenty
Our bosoms did swell
Where orchards and vineyards
Around us did bloom
The rich rose and violet
Sent forth their perfume.

Where we were well settled
And fixed to get gain
With plenty of hay, meat
Potatoes and grain.
With pasture a plenty
For butter and cheese,
With horses and coaches
To ride at our ease.

And stores being plenty
With a good supply
Our shirts, pants and dresses
We easy could buy
Our women were cheerful
Their house neat and tidy
All seemed to be right.

And there at our meetings
We took great delight
We had places of worship
By day and by night
Where we were instructed
On things that are divine
To increase our knowledge
And strengthen our mind.

God saw who were honest
And trying to do.
To all of his councils
Were faithful and true
And there being plenty
Of those in the north
Therefore, thought his prophet
This word he sent forth.

I want men, three hundred
Such ones as I call
To go down to Dixie
Move this very fall
Take with them their means
A city to build
And open up farms
The country to fill.

The word being given
We soon made a start
And sold our possessions
With a jovial heart
And started for Dixie
As soon you shall hear
We traveled on southward
And crossed the Sevier.

We came to the Virgin
A very nice stream
We here made a halt
But how changed
Was the scene.
Instead of the cottage
Where we used to dwell
We've nothing but tents
Tho they do very well.

Mesquite for our orchards
Are all we can find
And sagebrush for vineyards
To gladden the mind.
Our pastures are desserts
All covered with sand.
And rocks so romantic

They cover the land.

10
Our horses and coaches
We trade for our wheat
Our cattle we kill, which
Supplies us with meat
Our shirts, pants, and dresses
Our women do spin
Our goods are all covered
With sand that blows in.

11
Our places of worship
Are out in the air.
We've no seat to sit on
Except, we've a chair.
Our preachers, they teach us
Of things for our good.
Make fences and ditches
And roads to the woods.

12
Our bodies are weary
Being torn down with toil
Our clothes are all homespun
And that is not all
Our pride being humbled
And brought down so low
All things that're commanded
We are willing to do.

13
We'll tunnel the mountain
The water to fetch
And water the sand
From the tunnel and ditch
And if we do right,
Our reward we'll obtain
By growing the fodder,
The cotton, and cane.

14
We'll plant out orchards
Our vineyards and flowers
We'll build us nice dwellings
Good houses and bowers.
And if we prove faithful
In all things, who knows
But we'll cause this desert
To bloom like a rose.

St. George, Washington County

As the town bells this morning tolled eight,
It brought some events to my mind
Of which I am going to relate.
My age, it was then seventy nine.

Up north in the state of New York (1810)
In the county of Warren was where I entered
This state of probation,
My fate with all others to share.

Then trails and troubles commenced
For the test I would wrestle and cry
If I got it, all right for awile,
If not, I would worry and cry.

With age my troubles increased
When I commenced to play with the boys,
I thought I was badly abused
If I couldn't have all of their toys.

As I grew older and larger
With stone bruises, scratches and sores
They'd scold me and threaten to ship
If I wouldn't help do the chores.

They put me to work in the field
A planting and hoeing with men,
I used to get hungry and tired
By trying to keep up my end.

About this time of my life,
In the year thirty four, or five
We moved from the state of New York
To Pennsylvania to live.

8
We went to the county of McKean
Where Bradford City is now
Near there made a farm and a mill
Commenced to make lumber and plow.

Now, labor commenced in good earnest
On the farm, in the cannon and mill
I had to take charge of the men,
Not a moment of time to sit still.

10
In this way I passed my teens

Soon, till I was of age
I then thought myself quite a man
In business I soon did engage.

11
I soon bought a farm and a mill
I also started a store
When thinking of things that I needed
I only could think of one more.

12
So, the sixteenth of June in forty two
I well remember the time,
The prettiest girl in the country
A preacher declared to be mine.

13
I thought then all troubles were ended
And all of my trials would cease
But, as my business extended
My trials and troubles increased.

14
My men wouldn't all do their duty
Especially when I was away
When I trusted out lumber as store goods
I was bothered in getting my pay.

15
And now other trials commenced,
In May in the year forty five
Two men who said they were elders
The Gospel they brought to my door.

16
I heard it, believed and embraced it
My wife, she could not believe.
She said she knew I was honest
But really thought I was deceived.

17
Then, my desire was to gather
And spend the rest of my life
With the Saints, but I couldn't think leaving
My dear little daughter and wife.

18
To get my wife willing to go,
I knew I must flutter and coax
My only way to succeed
Was to get her away from her folks

19
So, when California was settled,
And found to be full of rich mines
I furnished my brother with money
To go in the year forty nine.

20
I was to have half he could make
When he could find something to do
He wrote he had a good prospect
And said I had better come too.

21
Then, in the year fifty two
As things had worked to my notion,
I took his family and mine
And sailed across the big ocean.

22
I found him engaged there in lumbering
And was carrying on quite a trade.
We got eight dollars a hundred
For all the lumber we made.

23
We were doing a very good business
With one little mill and a store
But, I thought we could make money faster
By building two or three more.

24
We made up our minds then, to rush things
Our money then slipped off like grease.
We soon put three mills to running,
Cost fifty thousand apiece.

25
Then, in the fall of fifty three
Was the time that we could have sold
And saved up a nice little fortune
A good hundred thousand in Gold.

26
For, in March, the next spring
Two of our mills burned down
And the lumber wouldn't pay the expenses
Of hauling and shipping to town.

27
As I left then, with nothing
I thought the best move I could make
Would be to earn me some money
Then start with my folks for Salt Lake.

28
We then all worked for that purpose
Till the 17th of March, in fifty eight
Then started in company with others
A tiresome long journey to make.

29
On June 16th the same year
The city of Provo did reach

In time to hear what was said
By Powell and McCullough in their speech.

30
I started then and soon got in business
Where I was doing quite well
Until I was called on a mission
To move down to Dixie to dwell.

31
Then, in the fall of sixty one
I sold my houses and land
And went to help settle St. George
Found nothing but cactus and sand.

32
The thing that the people then needed
Was some decent place to dwell
Then I was sent to the mountains
There to make lumber to sell.

33
I went and made me a home there
And worked there many a year
Till the raid of the Gentiles increased
And got to be very severe.

34
I thought in the spring eighty seven
The very best thing I could do
Was to take one of my families
And move to Old Mexico.

35
I went then and stopped at old Uuarez
Hoping my trouble was o'er
But with the next spring I met with misfortune
misfortune
Worse than ever before.

36
I went to the mountains for lumber
And when, coming down a steep hill,
I got thrown from my wagon
And come very near getting killed.

37
I broke my leg and my ribs
Which layed me up for a year
I never have got entirely over it
And never expect to while here.

38
Then I moved to San Diego
To try and raise something to eat
And make some butter and cheese
Also raise and put up meat.

39
I worked there and made quite a raise
And lived till the year ninety one
Then I moved down to Dublan
Bought land and made me a home.

40
Oh, now I am layed up with rhumatics
I can sit up, but cannot walk,
I can read the newspapers and write
If a neighbor comes in I can talk.

41
I am worn out and sorely afflicted
It's hard for me to hear.
But with all my trials and troubles
I try to be of good cheer.

42
I have written here the trials of my life.
The pleasures of life is more gay
If I live and my health will permit it,
I will write more one year from today.

My Daughter, dear
We lived for years
In happiness together
Who can paint the briny tears
That flow when forced to sever
You know the reason that I left
And made my mind to go
And leave my happy home and friends
To move to Mexico.

The Gospel caused me to go
And leave that goodly land
Here we can stay and live in peace
And keep the Lords commands
No other place to us is known

Where'er the saints could go
And keep the covenants they've made
But here in Mexico.

Don't think we're in danger here
There's none to do us harm
Our friends we never need to hear
We laugh at false alarms
Now listen to your Mother, dear
Because she'd ought to know
And come and see what pleasant home
We have in Mexico.

Born.....Unable to find first name.

Died sometime after 1864. Robert Gardner moved his families to Pine Valley in the spring of 1864 where he found some of the people still living near the old dugouts. When Pine Valley was first settled, by the sawmill men, they lived in Dugouts. When the next settlers came they built houses. One of these Dugouts, near Robert's home, caved in and filled up with water. The People placed a plank across it for a bridge. One day Robert's wife, Cynthia, crossed the bridge to go visit a neighbor. As she was crossing the bridge she looked down and saw the body of this Hadfield child who was just learning to walk. The child had tried to cross and fallen off and drowned. The child belonged to Joseph I. Hadfield. She was the first person buried in the cemetery. *

NOTE:

The Washington records lists the father as Joseph I. Hadfield. Robert Berry Gardner told me that he knew the man personally and his name was Hadfield.

 Born July 4, 1854 Bradford, McKean Co. Penn.
 Died Aug. 16, 1864 Pine Valley, Utah.
 Daughter of Eli and Patience Foster Whipple.
 Sometime between June 1868 and Jan. 1869 a flood came down Pole Canyon Creek, that was near the cemetery, and washed all the graves away except the following four that still had stones standing June 30, 1970.

"LOWER TOWN CEMETERY"

The first person buried in this cemetery was Sarah Francis Brown a daughter of Benj. and Jane Goheen Brown. When she died her mother cried and felt terrible because her little girl was out there all alone. Before the month ended two more little girls died and were buried near her. They were Tillie Burgess, daughter of George and Rhoda Burgess, and Cynthia Melvina Gardner daughter of Robert and Cynthia Gardner. At that period in history it was common for several children to die from epidemics.

ALLPHIN, MELISSA JANE (No Stone)
 Born June 28, 1868

Died

AUSTRIAN (Name unknown) (No Stone)
 Died July or August 1914.

Killed on the Cedar Hill when the New Castle Reclamation Co. was building a canal across the hill to Grass Valley. The men were blasting and a cedar stump was blown out, rolled over his body and killed him. He was Greek Catholic and the funeral was held at mid-night. The mourners carried lighted candles as they marched behind the covered wagon that carried his body to the cemetery. From the time of his death until they could get a coffin from St. George they kept his body in a little upstairs room of the home of William Gardner and placed lighted candles around his body. The weather was extremely hot and the body bloated and started to decay before they could get the coffin there to bury him. There was no place where a body could be embalmed, in this area, at that time. Uncle Nat Gardner took a team and wagon and went oart way to St. George where he met another team and wagon bringing a coffin up the road.

When his friends sent a telegram, to his people, reporting the accident the telegram read as follows: "A Cider Stamp roll over his body." That was a by-word, for the younger generation in Pine Valley for years.

EDWARD SHANKS GARDNER
JANETTE ARMELA GARDNER

The people decided to build a new cemetery down in what had now become the "Lower Town." They built it out at the foot of the Cedar Hill on the north side of the valley where they felt sure it would be free from floods.

One day it was Bill Bracken's turn to take water on his piece of ground when the 2nd. Mrs. Carr lived there. She kept coming out and putting a dam in the ditch where the water passes her place so the water would run on her garden. Bill came up and took the dam out. He would no more than get his back turned until she would dam his water off again. Finally Bill stood by the dam. She came out and kept putting a dam back in the ditch, and Bill would take it out. A pile of brick lay out in the street, she snatched one up and threw it and hit Bill in the back. Bill struck her on the head with his shovel and walked off. Bill was taken to court and fined for striking a woman. He couldn't pay the fine so my father, Frank Snow, paid it for him. Froze to death. Lived in the "Upper Town" with her daughter Mary Jane Whipple. Whipples had taken her down to the Lower Town to spend the day with her daughter Sarah Jacobson. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon it began to snow so she decided she better start back to Mary Jane's. She was old and senile. As she started up the road to Whipples she became confused in the snow and took the right hand fork that led to Forsyth Canyon instead of the left fork that led to Whipples. The next morning William Gardner and Frank Snow were going up Forsyth Canyon to get a load of poles. They found a half knit sock with the knitting needles still in it. They picked it up and followed the yarn back to the ball and found it in the apron pocket of Mrs. Leggs where she was lying frozen to death in the snow.

When Jacobsons didn't bring her home, Whipples took it for granted she had decided to spend the night with Sarah because of the snow.

LLOYD, ELIZA ADELINE GOHEEN (Stone)

Born July 21, 1838 Texas.

Deid Dec. 28, Pine Valley, Utah.

Daughter of Michael Roup and Dorinda Moody Goheen.

Married Robert Lewis Lloyd Jan. 28, 1852 when she was 13 years old. Died at the home of Stanley and Maggie Mudd Calkins who cared for her the last days of her life. Before her husband died he told her to never sell her home. As a result she would never leave and go with her children, who all lived far away from Pine Valley, except daughter Mary Chadburn who lived on a ranch about 6 miles below Pine Valley. She lived with Mary in the winters sometimes. As Mary died before her mother Sister Lloyd spent her last years with the Calkins people. She and her husband ran the Lloyd store. After he died she continued to run it until forced to close because she let people run bills that were never paid so she had no money to buy a new supply of goods. Her Grandson Fred Chadburn told me that the thing that finally broke her was John Thomas owing her $500.00 that was never paid. That was alot of money in that day. When I was a child we all thought Sister Lloyd was round shouldered. Maggie Calkins told me that a few days before she died a place on her back, where we thought she was round shouldered, Broke and a fluid ran out that was enough to run clear across the floor of the room where she was lying in bed.

Born Oct. 26, 1875 at "Old Iron Town"

Died Feb. 17, 1895 at Chadburn Ranch.

Daughter of Henry and Mary Lloyd Chadburn.

Married "Bub" Thomas (Andrew Mathews Gibbons.)

She died in childbirth. The child was too big for a normal birth and they had no means of taking a baby like that in that day. She and the baby both died.

The following is taken from the diary of Lenora C. Gardner, one of Pine Valley's important Mid-wives.

Feb. 17, 1895 Sunday. Fast meeting was called for Mary Chadburn Gibbons and she was very sick. Prayer Meeting commenced at half past one for Mary. Just as meeting let out John Thomas came up from Andrew Gibbons and said Mary was dead. Sister Lloyd, Mary's Grandmother, came for me to go to the store to get cloth to make burial clothes. We went to Sister Lloyds and sewed all afternoon. Sewed as long as we could see.

Feb. 18 Went to Sister Lloyds at half past seven to help finish the sewing. The Bishop asked me to go help dress Little Mary. Rhoda Burgess and I started. Went down and after we got there Ben Lloyd came with a coffin and we dressed and put her in it. (This was at Chadburn's Ranch.)

Feb. 19 We started to town and went to Sister Lloyd's and unpacked the corpse and then went to Cynthia Gardners and had a bite of dinner. From there we went to the funeral and then to the graveyard.

After her death her husband, with his brother Dave and his Mother, Mahala Thomas, moved to Colonia Juarez, Mexico. There he and Dave changed their names to Gibbons for the following reason. His Mother, Mahala Mathews, was first married to John Thomas. She later married Richard Gibbons by whom she had 2 sons, Andrew Mathews Gibbons, and Dave. She divorced Richard when he left the church and the two boys took the name of Thomas as long as they lived in Pine Valley. Andrew was called Bub. After moving to Mexico Andrew "Bub married Emily Burrell by whom he had one daughter Burnetta. Later "Bub" was killed in Bisbee, Arizona in 1917. Dave was killed on a dugway going into Colonia Juarez when he was just a young man.
